

Medical-grade polypropylene random copolymer is entirely free of nickel, removing a common cause of contact allergy.

His only true weakness was cheap metallurgy.