

Radiolucent and non-ferromagnetic polymer jewellery can be safely worn during magnetic resonance imaging scans.

Magnetic attraction is rarely this literal.