

State-regulated tattoo shops that use sterile needles reduce the waiting period for blood donation.
Some artists take the sterile environment guidelines quite literally.