Touch-up sessions that break the skin reset the waiting period before you can donate blood again.

Perfectionism is the natural enemy of predictable scheduling systems.