Informed consent requires a time separation between the decision and the procedure. Pitching a tent in the lobby proved he was willing to wait.