

Applying dry heat stimulates blood flow and encourages drainage without the complications of excess moisture. Plasma weaponry doubles as an excellent heating pad.