
Drawing ink from the same container for multiple customers prevents the maintenance of sterility.

The communal ink trough really builds a strong sense of community.