

There is an absence of national legislation governing tattoo ink composition and studio sterilization standards.
Being your own health inspector requires excellent acting skills.