

Exposure to natural sunlight causes certain tattoo pigments in the skin to break down chemically.
The sun is the ultimate art critic.