

Coloured inks frequently contain trace heavy metals like cadmium and lead that trigger delayed allergic reactions.
Setting off metal detectors implies questionable ink sourcing.