

Swabbing skin directly from a communal container of preparation solution compromises the antiseptic barrier. The jar has officially joined the band.