

Standard steel alloys release sensitizing compounds which cause severe irritation when inserted into fresh healing wounds.

The jewelry was entirely too attached to her.