

Contaminated sharps require immediate disposal into puncture-resistant containers located directly at the active workstation. The artist has inadvertently invented a highly dangerous relay race.