

Regulators are assessing both the frequency of procedures and the typical duration of a tattoo session. Speedrunning a backpiece completely ignores the physical limits of human friction.