

The human blink reflex is vastly insufficient to protect the retina from ultrashort laser pulses.
Eyelid cardio yields surprisingly little tactical advantage.