

Vaporised tissue and pigment create airborne plumes that must be removed by local exhaust extractors.
Deep sea diving equipment overcomplicates standard studio ventilation.