
Metallic components in certain tattoo inks can interact with the electromagnetic fields generated during medical imaging.

This is an unusual place to discover magnetic superpowers.