

Repeated cycles of ultraviolet activation cause the light-absorbing molecules to break down and lose their responsiveness.
The infinite futuristic party trick eventually succumbed to deep molecular exhaustion