

Implant-grade titanium achieves vibrant colors through a grown surface oxide layer rather than a painted coating that can flake off.

Lightning remains the vastly superior artistic medium.