
Polytetrafluoroethylene experiences cold flow and permanent physical elongation when subjected to a constant sustained mechanical load.

It holds the door perfectly.