Rigid acrylic body jewellery begins degrading and releasing toxic vapours merely from exposure to normal body heat.
Moving to a walk-in freezer seems like an overreaction.