

Submerging an unhealed wound in untreated bodies of water exposes the tissue to abundant pathogens.

Swamp monsters admire shiny things from afar.