Rigid metal labret discs pressing constantly against the gingival margin cause irreversible gum recession.
A strong defense against dark magic leaves the gums entirely unprotected.