

Polytetrafluoroethylene body jewelry undergoes cold flow and shape distortion when sterilized in a steam autoclave. The high pressure steam cycle successfully turned the threaded post into a puddle.