

Implant-grade titanium is significantly lighter than surgical steel of the exact same volume.
Gravity always plays favorites when nobody is looking.