
Implant-grade titanium is approximately 45 percent lighter than surgical steel.

Gravity has respectfully decided to look the other way.