

The responsible person must submit reports of severe adverse health events to federal authorities within a brief window of business days.

Carrier pigeons are on standby for immediate bureaucratic dispatch.