

European safety regulations have outright banned specific blue and green synthetic pigments due to data gaps.
The sky and the grass have been formally recalled.