

Employing extra artists for major events is viable only when projected contribution covers all additional travel, accommodation, and management costs.

Buying larger clown cars mostly just requires paying more clowns.