

High daily revenue can mask extensive travel and permit costs if gross sales are mistaken for profitable expansion.
Setting money on fire is a highly inefficient way to stay warm.