

Publishing clear menus and minimum service charges protects working hours for custom or time-intensive pieces.
Fences make surprisingly good architecture when herds are running at the door.