

Profitable event planning requires measuring the contribution margin per booked hour rather than just counting busy appointments.

The mystery of the missing profit margin remains unsolved.