

Third-party thermal paper fed into specific proprietary induction systems often produces inconsistent transfer quality. The machine firmly rejected the generic grocery receipt.