

A studio can purchase multiple portable thermal units for the cost of a single high-end desktop copier. Distributing hardware like party favors became the budget strategy.