Nickel sensitisation can develop after repeated or prolonged exposure.

Awarding lifetime tenure to generic alloys is an optimistic administrative error.