

The phrase hypoallergenic is marketing language unless supported by defined material specifications and test evidence.
Shouting marketing adjectives rarely defeats an active immune system.