

Physical cleaning to remove organic debris is essential before any instrument can be successfully sterilised.
Bacteria are notoriously resilient against harsh language.