

Practitioners must conduct thorough consultations regarding medical history and potential contraindications before proceeding with body art. Medical questionnaires lack a certain romance.