
Attempting a home removal of a healed dermal anchor causes significant scarring and requires professional intervention.

Some deeply rooted issues require outside assistance.