

Attempting to pull out healed dermal anchors at home causes significant tissue damage.

Using bathroom plungers to extract government tracking devices requires rethinking.