

Nickel release from skin contact hardware is strictly capped to an incredibly minimal trace amount.

We prefer our metal to stay where we put it