

Artists mixing different inks to create custom blends are classified by federal regulators as manufacturers.
The industrial revolution has never been so sudden.