

Facilities processing tattoo inks for commercial distribution must register products with health authorities.

Bureaucracy requires an entirely different kind of warrior.