

Exposure to natural sunlight causes photochemical cleavage of certain tattoo pigments.

The avoidance of daylight has reached architectural extremes.