

Skin stretches safely through slow viscoelastic creep rather than sudden mechanical force.

Physics always wins the tug of war.