

Magnetic resonance imaging scanners exert dangerous ferromagnetic torque on non-implant-grade body jewelry.

A very expensive way to test metallurgy.