Shared touchscreen try-on kiosks require intermediate-level disinfection between each client interaction.

A polished screen is just a mirror that remembers everyone who touched it.