

Medical-grade polymer remains chemically stable and safe for continuous wear compared to porous acrylics that absorb moisture.

Sponges belong in the kitchen sink, not in a fresh piercing.