

Claims of products being entirely free of forever chemicals require verification through laboratory test reports. The cyborg refused to moisturize without proper clearance.