

A supplier claim that an ink is sterile does not reveal whether the formulation relies on phenol as a preservative.

Magic words rarely neutralize bad chemistry.